It enables you to design custom report template to meet your own requirements and design your reports with clarity and simplicity. In Sharperlight you can perform text search on any component of a report. This makes it the ideal reporting solution for end-user access to your data. Sharperlight allows you to easily conduct your analysis in your own way, since you can use simple text search, conditional statements, hierarchical structure and other methods. You can make any branch of the report, add actions, format elements in any way you desire. This is the method for rapid reporting with the help of text search, the possibility to create very convenient reports. At the same time, this method of code generation allows you to add conditional elements in the report and move the content up and down. After the elements for the report you can add actions to modify the output values of the report. The system is very flexible, and it has many reporting variants. Many ready-made reports are available, including date-based, line chart, tabular, formula. With the help of powerful tools like magic columns, shared data sources, visual representations, you can create reports that are very informative and attractive to the end user. Some of the reports include rank, order, datetime, multiple types of error detection, number of decimal places, and more. You can create your own report with the help of a form of another report. This is one of the most popular reporting systems in the world.
